

Carol Morley

Carol Morley is a senior change and transformation leader with over two decades experience partnering with C-suite business leaders across sectors (Technology, Entertainment, Tertiary Education, Retail, Financial Services, and Aerospace) and sites (Australia, UK and USA).

Carol draws from her expertise in strategic HR business partnering, program management, business performance improvement, organisational design, and change consulting to build relationships and co-create solutions with clients and team members. As a trusted advisor and creative systems thinker, she looks for root causes rather than symptoms, while also injecting a sense of fun into operational excellence, strategic planning and initiative delivery.

Carol's sweet spot is helping organisations operationalise their strategy and embed new ways of working. She creates space for team members to unpack what is really required for them to deliver the change and helps them navigate organisational systems to deliver desired results.

As a Principal Consultant with ENTHEOS Consulting, Carol works with businesses to transform their operating models and improve customer and employee experiences.

Carol is motivated by the desire to create workplaces and services that drive connection and advocacy, and loves tackling new challenges and opportunities for shared learning and discovery.
